PAUSE IN THE MURDER CASE.

THE POLICE INVESTIGATING KENNEDY'S FINANCIAL CONDITION.

THE DENTIST BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN IN GREAT NEED OF MONEY WHEN THE CRIME WASNOMMITTED FUNER

There were few fresh developments in the Grand Hotel murder case yesterday. Nothing of im-portance was, discovered pointing either to the guilt or innocence of Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy, the dentist who was arrested on Tuesday afternoon. Perhaps most important additional fact ascertained by the police is that Kennedy has for some time been in financial difficulties. He still possesses a small balance at the Gardeld National Bank, but it was learned that he had been trying to raise $3,500 on his property at New-Dorp, Staten Island, which is supposed to be worth about $5,000. He was unsucisful in raising the loan. It has also been dis Mendham, the broker who supported Miss Revnolds in the Fifty-eighth-st. flat, and who was introduced to the woman by Kennedy. Mendham ay to testify at the Coroner's inquest obtain money from friends in Philadelphia and a detective has gone to that city in order to up any evidence against the prisoner that funeral of Emeline C. Reynolds took place vesterday afternoon. The body had been lying at an undertaking establishment at West Broadway d Canal-st., and there had been a large crowd inside and outside the shop ever since the body was there. The father, mother and two brothers of the murdered woman arrived at the undertaker's soon after noon, and at 12:30 o'clock the Rev. Dr Eishop, of St. John's Episcopal Church, in Variek read the burial service. close friends of the dead woman from gathered in front of the shop, and the undertaker and his assistants had considerable trouble in keepdeath, was engraved on a silver plate.

and her husband had to support her. After the brief ceremony a girl who was Miss Reynolds's close friend at school bent over the casket and kissed the face of the dead woman. No flowers were brought by the mourners. The coffin was corried to the hearse by the undertaker's assistants, and was taken to Evergreens Cemetery. Four carriages followed the hearse. There were no ser vices at the grave.

It had been at first intended that Miss Reynolds should be buried in the family plot in Mount Ver-non, but at the last minute the fear of publicity and desire to avoid the crowd which would be sure ble at Mount Vernon induced the woman's family to buy a plot in Evergreens Cemetery, and burial permit was changed in consequence.

It was expected that the case against Kennedy would be taken before the Grand Jury yesterday. but yesterday morning Assistant District-Attorney McIntyre decided to postpone the charge until the September term. The present Grand Jury will adjourn to-day. Mr. McIntyre said yesterday that he ted the Magistrate would commit Kennedy stody of the Coroner. Mr. McIntyre added uld be one of the first taken up by the September Grand Jury. Several witnesses were examined taken down. Among them were the bellboy who took the champagne to the room engaged by Miss olds, and the chambermaid who found the

Mr. McIntyre and Mr. O'Reilly will represent the People, and Kennedy will be de-fended by Mr. House, of the firm of Friend, House, & Grossman, who has been retained by the pris-oner's father and father-in-law.

Messrs, House and Friend were both in con-suitation with Kennedy for several hours yester-day. The Rev. Dr. Yocum, of the New-Dorp Epis-copal Church, of which Kennedy is said to be a prisoner would also not talk to any one but his lawyers, so that even if Captain McClusky questions him again he will get no information from him.

Mesers, House and Friend said after their talk with Dr. Kennedy vesterday that they were firmly convinced of the man's innovence of the crime imputed to him. They added that they had been impressed by his bearing and his tale of his life, so far as they had been informed of it by the prisoner. They were positive that the case was one of mistaken identity, and that the prisoner would prove his innocence if brought to trial. When asked about the contradictory statements made by Dr. Kennedy of his travels on Monday evening, the lawyers said that what a man said when in trouble and in the hands of the police was not exidence. A man under auth irreumstances, especially when innocent, they said, was illkely to contradict himself from fright. Mr. House said that the man told a lucid and rational story of his travels and doings on the night of last Monday.

Ernest J. Lederle, the chemist of the Board of Health, is analyzing the stains on Mr. Kennedy's undergarments, corresponding to the plece of lead-covered wire with which the crime was committed Mr. Lederle said vesterday that it would take several days to make the analysis.

About the most favorable circumstances for Kennedy up to the present time are the foliure of the police to find any trace of the jewelry which was stolen from Miss Kennedy and the straw hat, which all the witnesses from the Grand Hotel agree was worn by the women's companion. To every pawnbroker in the city has been furnished a description of the jewelry, while three detectives are engaged solely upon the hunt for the straw hat, Kennedy's father declares that his son never wore a straw hat. The proprisor of the store in which Kennedy bought underclothing a few hours hear of the man straw hat. Seenedy to the positive denial made yesterday morning by Mr. Meintyre that any letters from Kennedy to Miss Reynolds or from Miss Reynolds or from one side the

She was arrested, but as Ahlert would not a complaint Magistrate Marsh discharged. The young couple furnished their home eighteen months ago at an expense of $199. They had paid $194, and everything went well until Mr. Holm lost his work. He could not find employment, and in despair sailed for Europe last week, promising to send money for his wife and two bables as soon as he reached his relatives. When the instalment man drove up with a wagon to carry away her furniture Mrs. Holm begged for time, but Ahlert said he could not grant it, and began to carry out the furniture. The woman looked on weeping until nearly all had been carried out, and then she attacked Ahlert.
